The feedstock capacity of the ABEPL plant just inaugurated at Collaghat in Assam is 300,000 tornat per annum (TPA). It will produce around 50,000 TPA of ethanol per annum, apart from 20,000 TPA of further annum, apart from 20,000 TPA of the standard per annum, apart from 20,000 TPA of the standard per annum, apart is subset on a Flinish technology that employs Organoslov process.

This process distinguishes Itself from other second generation ethanol production technologies because it is environmentally benign. While the Indian Oil plant is based on strong mineral acid as it is alkall based, our technology employs milder paranted organic acids, making it environmentally benign. Ranakumar said, addling its production efficiency is much higher too with a 6-18 per cent volume-by-volume yield per tonne of feedstock.
